

General Education

2021 Cohort and onwards

1. Introduction to the General Education Programme

The General Education (GE) Programme aims to provide a foundation for each student's development as a Whole Person.

Designed in accordance with an outcomes-based teaching and learning (OBTL) approach, the programme is tailored with clear intended learning outcomes for the students, building on their respective strengths, towards achieving the HKBU Graduate Attributes.

1.1. Intended Learning Outcomes of the GE Programme

By the time students have completed the GE Programme, they are expected to have achieved a number of intended learning outcomes after completing the courses required. Broadly speaking, students should be able to:

- PILO 1: Use historical and cultural perspectives to gain insight into the contemporary issues;
- PILO 2: Apply various value systems to decision-making in personal, professional, and social/political situations;
- PILO 3: Use data for the purposes of analyses and to make recommendations for strategic implementation of policy on social, economic and business, cultural, and political affairs;
- PILO 4: Relate their majors with interdisciplinary thematic knowledge;
- PILO 5: Demonstrate connections among a variety of disciplines to gain insight into contemporary personal, professional, and community situations.

1.2. Structure of the General Education Programme

The GE Programme offers courses from different disciplines at three levels, for a total of 18 units. The table below shows the structure of the GE Programme:
